Executive Summary

A seasoned leader with over two decades of prolific experience in academic research libraries. Spanning more than half of this tenure, I have held pivotal roles in library IT management, steering numerous institution-wide initiatives and serving as the president of a prominent national library IT association. My approach is grounded in curiosity and advocating for transformative change through the lens of sustainable, accessible, and standards-based infrastructures and systems. I champion a collaborative and user-centric philosophy in leadership, actively listening and responding to the needs of users. Drawing upon my deep understanding of higher education's teaching, research, and service needs, coupled with a keen familiarity in planning for scalability, I'm adept at getting buy-in and crafting strategic visions. My communication skills enable me to forge strong relationships with stakeholders and the broader community, fostering collaboration and shared success.
